Textbook Buyback

POLICY STATEMENT

The University Bookstore will purchase only books that appear on a textbook requisition for the next term.

REASON FOR POLICY

To provide our students with the opportunity to sell unwanted textbooks and to ensure there will be a supply of used books for the next term.

PROCEDURES

1. Prior to each term all academic departments are furnished a textbook requisition for each class being offered in the upcoming term.

2. Each academic department completes the requisition and returns it to the bookstore for processing.

3. From those requisitions received prior to the undergraduate finals week, a buyback list of titles and quantities is compiled. A used book wholesaler provides the cash and buyers for each closing and opening buy of the semester. They purchase first for the university from the provided buyback list and secondly for themselves.

4. The University Bookstore provides a buyback window that is open Monday through Friday for the convenience of our graduate students and recommends to our undergraduate students that they participate in the buyback sessions offered during finals week for better pricing.

5. Graduate textbook lists are subject to the same criteria as stated above.

6. The bookstore will only purchase books for upcoming terms for which they have received a signed textbook requisition from the academic department. All other books may be purchased by our wholesale buyer if there is a demand for them at other colleges or universities, and they will be bought at wholesale pricing.

FORMS

The Textbook Requisition form may be obtained at www.bookstore.apu.edu on the Faculty Services page.

Course Material Acquisition

POLICY STATEMENT

The University Bookstore will provide all materials needed for courses offered by Azusa Pacific University.

REASON FOR POLICY

To enable Azusa Pacific University to ensure that students have access to affordable and accurate course materials while still meeting the needs of students and faculty. Provide an institutional retail establishment to ensure accurate reporting of sales taxes and to avoid the ethical impropriety of in-class sales to students.

PROCEDURES

• Well in advance of each term the University Bookstore will provide faculty members with course material requisition forms showing what materials they used the previous term. These forms carry submission deadlines that are very critical for the University Bookstore to ensure timely and cost effective acquisition of materials. Late orders for course materials are always processed but are subject to freight charges being charged back to the faculty member’s department. Orders changed after materials have been acquired are subject to freight charges and restocking fees also being charged back to the faculty member’s department.
• The University Bookstore will notify instructors as soon as possible of out of print titles, new editions and out of stock/backorder titles. These notifications will be sent via e-mail to the faculty member and/or department administrator.

Therefore, the following guidelines are used when acquiring course materials

• Order quantities will be determined using instructor estimated enrollments, actual pre-registration numbers, maximum size numbers, course and sales history.
• The University Bookstore will attempt to provide as many used texts as possible for students using book buyback and purchasing from used text wholesalers.
• Optional or recommended titles will be ordering in smaller quantities using course and sales history as a guideline.

PROCEDURES

• Instructor(s) and/or departments are required to utilize the University Coursepack policy and procedures in order for the coursepacks to be sold. Defective Merchandise

Policy Statement

Any defective merchandise sold by the University Bookstore is eligible for full refund or replacement as long as the original sales receipt accompanies the merchandise.

Reason for Policy

Provide fair treatment to our customers and good stewardship to the university.

Exceptions

- Defective does not include problems resulting from abuse or misuse.

Departmental Charges

Policy Statement

All departments are authorized to set up a charge account and to receive a 20% discount on all merchandise, except for course materials, sale items, snacks, services or software. Departments must authorize certain individuals to sign for purchases to be charged and picked up.

Reason for Policy

Provide an efficient and cost effective means for obtaining bookstore merchandise for departmental use.

Procedures

A person authorized to charge is required to sign for purchases, for this reason merchandise is not generally mailed to departments. Occasionally, when prior arrangements have been made, merchandise will be delivered to departments.

To set up an account the University Bookstore requires:

- An account number with permission from the account manager to charge.
- A list of staff/faculty members allowed charging on that account. This list is updated at the beginning of each fiscal year.
- Verification of funds from the Business Office. (Accounts are considered funded unless the University Bookstore receives notification from the Business Office that the account is over budget.)
Departmental Purchase of Textbooks for Students

Policy Statement
Student Financial Services must approve all such requests as to whether it meets Financial Aid Guidelines.

Reason for Policy
From time to time departments may wish to purchase texts for selected students.

Procedures
Written authorization from the department and Student Financial Services must be received by the University Bookstore prior to the start of the term, containing the following information.

* The name(s) of student(s) the texts are to be purchased for.
* The account number the texts are to be charged to.
* The maximum amount to be charged.
* What types of merchandise allowed (texts, texts and supplies, etc.).
Desk Copy

Policy Statement
The University Bookstore will provide desk copies upon request.

Reason for Policy
A "desk copy" is an instructor’s copy of a text adopted for a class. Publishers traditionally provide these books free of charge to a faculty member after the text has been adopted for a class. However, these books are not automatically sent by publishers and must be requested by the faculty members. The University Bookstore understands that publishers are not always quick to respond to desk copy requests, and in the event that a desk copy does not arrive in time for class (or class preparation) the University Bookstore can provide desk copies. The department is responsible to return the exact text that was borrowed. Used texts are reserved for students and will only be allowed for purchase by departments if a new text is not available. The University Bookstore will charge the text to the appropriate department and credit that department when the text is returned. The text will be eligible for return as long as it is a current text and meets the return policy of the publisher.

Procedures
Some departments restrict who is allowed to borrow texts. The University Bookstore maintains a list provided by each department of those instructors (or staff members) authorized to borrow texts. Instructors not on the list are not allowed to borrow texts unless authorized by the department.
Discounts

Policy Statement
All faculty and staff receive 20% off their purchases at the University Bookstore. This discount does not apply to course materials, computer software, sale items, special order texts and snack items. When special sales events are held faculty and staff members will receive the higher discounts, not a cumulative discount.

Reason for Policy
Provide faculty and staff the best possible pricing while maintaining good stewardship of university funds.
