Financial Update From: Ross Allen

Acting Executive Vice President for Strategy and Finance

Financial Updates

The university continues to show positive results, reducing overall expenses while staying on track with enrollment and revenue projections. These positive actions by our community—our faculty, staff, and administration—increases our confidence that we will achieve our financial goals as we finish this fiscal year on June 30, 2019.

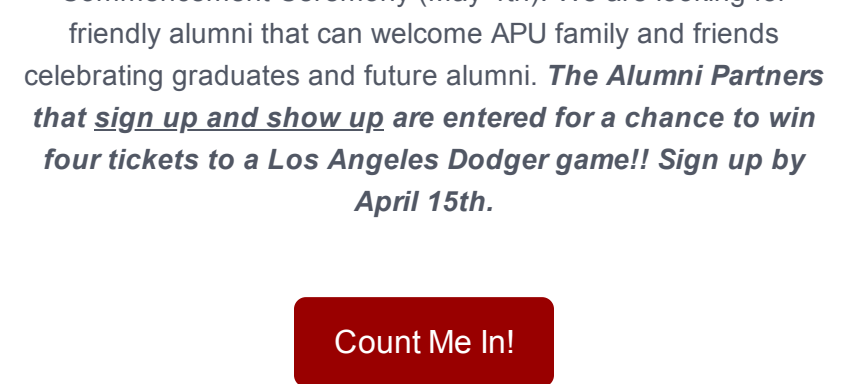

Actions taken by our community, and particularly by departmental managers, ensure the university has the required cash flow heading into summer by reducing expenses and working with external vendors to secure flexibility in payment timing. This, together with specific actions to optimize use of our assets, provides confidence that we will achieve our bond covenant liquidity requirement.

Above all, we remain committed to our primary purpose of developing disciples and scholars to advance God's work in the world, while also being good stewards of the financial resources entrusted to us.

Ross Allen

Acting Executive Vice President for Strategy and Finance/Chief Financial Officer

APU GIVING DAY

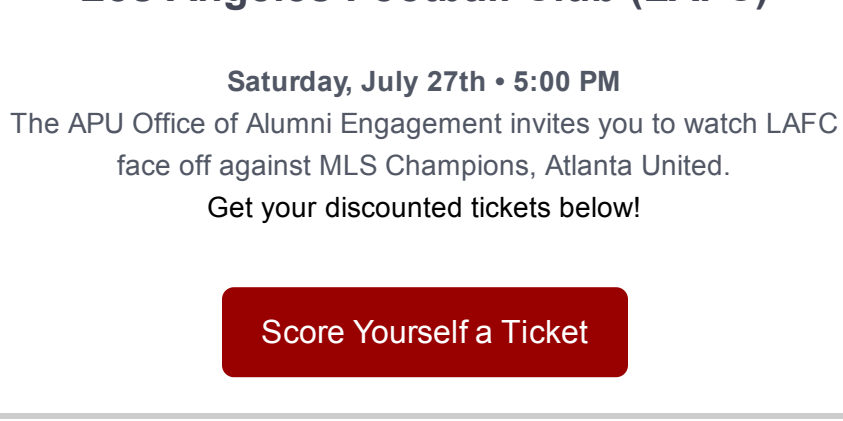

Something big is happening at APU on April 23, 2019!

APU Giving Day on April 23 is a 24-hour online and social media fundraising takeover to celebrate Azusa Pacific University and encourage alumni, parents, and friends to give to what they're most passionate about supporting at APU.

It's one entire day dedicated to make a difference and support APU students through academics, athletics, on campus experiences, and scholarships! Just think, because of gifts from alumni like you, our students can make a new discovery, impact a life, serve in countries near and far, and work as Christ's hands and feet around the world.

Do your part on April 23 – Make a gift to whatever you care most about at APU and share about APU Giving Day on your social media pages. You can use the image here to create a post, or repost from our page that day to make it easy!

One Day. One Purpose. Make a Difference.

APU STORIES

APU Alumnus Releases Film, The Jade Pendant

Azusa Pacific University hosted a limited engagement screening of the independent film, The Jade Pendant, from February 15-21 at Regency Foothill Cinema 10. Produced by APU alumnus LP Leung, The Jade Pendant tells the tragic love story of two Chinese immigrants living in Los Angeles' Chinatown in 1871. This was the year of the Chinese Massacre, a race riot where a 500-member mob entered Chinatown and killed approximately 20 Chinese men and women. The film received the Golden Angel Award for Best Film by an Independent Producer from the Chinese American Film Festival in Hollywood. Congratulations, LP!

Students connect with APU Oregon alumni on a Career Trek experience

During spring break in March, The Career Center launched an Inaugural Career Trek to Portland, Oregon where undergraduate students traveled and met with APU Alumni. The students were hosted at work sites and received career advice from APU Alumni employed by Nike Inc., Wieden + Kennedy advertising agency, and Portland Public Schools. The diverse group of undergraduate students enjoyed learning from recent and seasoned graduates as they explored professional opportunities. Follow @apucareer to learn more about the Career Trek experience.

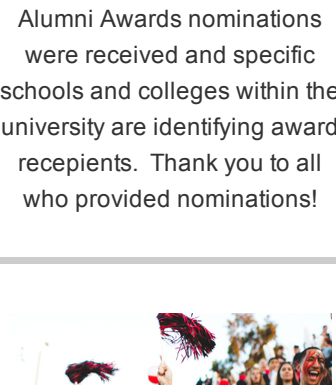

If you would be an alumni interested to serve as an workplace host and provide career insight for future Career Trek experiences, please contact Alexandra Oliva (aoliva@apu.edu), Experiential Learning Manager in The Career Center.
