Why Study Liberal Studies at Azusa Pacific University?

As technology, outsourcing, and intertwined national economies make our world smaller, the education of our youth in the United States has become an important issue. It is critical that American children gain the foundational education they need to compete for jobs and resources in a global marketplace. Public and private elementary and middle school teachers play a critical role in the education of our future professionals. Teachers with a Christian worldview also have the opportunity to help students develop personal character and ethical standards. An APU Liberal Studies major is uniquely prepared to meet this need, developing their students for future success.

Azusa Pacific University’s Liberal Studies/K-8 Education program equips future teachers and other professionals by integrating Common Core-aligned subject matter and service learning experiences with the application of a Christian worldview, exploring life vocation, promoting awareness of cultural diversity issues, and studying multiple curricula with emphasis in specific subject areas while fostering a holistic understanding of knowledge. Students in this program participate in approximately 75 hours of teacher-oriented service learning field experience in differing districts, allowing students to gain experience in meeting the needs of diverse populations. Liberal Studies majors leave APU prepared to make a difference in students’ lives and equip future leaders.
CHRISTA BIXBY ‘09
English Language Fellow funded by the US Department of State

Christa went on to earn her MA in TESOL and became an English Language Fellow. She is currently placed in Malaysia as an adjunct professor and conducts teacher training throughout the country in hopes to make sustainable changes to the TESOL field.

“Don’t settle for adequacy, don’t settle for easy answers, don’t settle for developing personally and not professionally, simply, don’t settle.”

Tiffany Moore ‘06
Founding Principal
KIPP Scholar Academy

After finishing with Teach for America, Tiffany joined KIPP LA Schools and founded KIPP Scholar Academy - a music school serving nearly 400 scholars in South Los Angeles.

“Take advantage of every moment you have at APU. When you teach, the more leadership and life experience you have, the better for your kids.”

David Mireles ‘13
6th Grade Teacher

After graduation, David went on to complete the Multiple Subject Credential program as well as earn his Master’s in Digital Learning and Teaching. He now teaches sixth grade at a public charter school in Chino, CA.

“Don’t be afraid to try new things! Remember: every student and teacher is unique and gifted, so what may work for one class may totally bomb in another class.”
